It is a pleasure and soul satisfying experience to go through the collection Salazary proved that artist is not only the one who creates and also the one who has eye and urge to collect.
His sense of history is satisfying that he preferred to leave it to the nation and eternalised himself.

I am told today is the last day for this museum is present premises & then the collection moves to new home; in a way it gives more one a piece of history to be here today.
All the credit to management for running it so well.
